It's Up to Trump and the States

U.S. Senator Lamar Alexander told his colleagues he's given up on stabilizing the Affordable Care Act. "So now efforts to help Americans paying skyrocketing premiums will turn to the Trump Administration and the states," he wrote. Well, exactly right.

As we've seen, outside of Congress, Obamacare can be creatively undermined. Trump is undoing Obamacare regulations. Idaho issued an executive order allowing policies that do not comply with Obamacare. And Iowa created a new type of coverage and declared it "not insurance" so it doesn't have to comply with Obamacare. The federal government has no business in health care and it's refreshing to see the states taking it back.
