Racing to Medicare Insolvency

Please listen up. Ten thousand Americans enroll in Medicare every day. In 2008, Medicare expenditures exceeded Medicare revenues. Insolvency is expected in 2029, eleven years from now. The Medicare Trustees expect availability and quality of care to suffer if payments to doctors stay as low as they are today.

But business is booming for Medicare Advantage plans. In one quarter, the top six plans had a combined profit of $6 billion, up 29 percent from the same quarter last year. Half of Aetna's profits are from government programs. Big Business is making money under Big Government...until the money runs out.
