Health Freedom Minute

September 11, 2017

Foes of Freedom Still At Large

Sixteen years ago, America was attacked by terrorists in hijacked planes. Although this day is called 9/11, Saddam Hussein may have chosen it because 9-1-1 is the number Americans have been trained to call in an emergency.

Today, we face at least two threats to freedom: The terrorists still trying to shut down America, and the socialist policymakers, government officials, CEOs and news media that couldn't give a hoot about our constitutional freedoms.

As we thank the brave protectors of our homes and shores since 9/11, also give thanks to the organizations battling America's socialist foes of freedom. Plan to donate to groups that fight vigorously each day to protect the constitutional freedoms you hold dear.

Presented daily by Twila Brase, President, Citizens' Council for Health Freedom.
