Government Sets Sights on Race Data Collection

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

Race was supposed to be a dead issue after we elected a black president. But look who’s pushing to divide the country rather than unite it.

The Obama Administration has announced plans to begin using clinics and hospitals to collect race, ethnicity, sex, gender, disability and sexual orientation data. This implements the “reduce health disparities” sections of Obamacare. But the law says nothing about sexual orientation. They just decided to add it. Seems there’s another agenda afoot.

Twelve years ago, two members of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights called the “reduce health disparities” agenda a thinly veiled attempt to nationalize health care.

The Department is taking comments from the public until Monday, August 1st. Act now. Make a comment. Find the link to the federal website today at healthfreedomminute.net.

To Comment: Go to http://www.regulations.gov/#/documentDetail;D=HHS-OMH-2011-0013-0001 and click the “Submit a Comment” button.