November 8, 2012

CCHF Sends Governors a Letter

With the re-election of President Obama, stopping Obamacare is now up to the states. The Achilles’ heel of Obamacare is its dependency on States to implement it. If the states refuse to comply, which they can do by refusing to set up any type of Obamacare exchange, then States can virtually stop the implementation of Obamacare.

Many governors refused Obama’s mandate to expand Medicaid and the U.S. Supreme Court backed them up. Likewise governors must refuse to set up Obama’s exchanges, the federal takeover centers. Without the exchanges, Obama will find it difficult to impose national health care. The states have the power to stop Obamacare. Tell your governor “no exchange.”