Gates Foundation Funds UN Digital IDs

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation just gave $200 million to advance digital IDs worldwide. The money supports the United Nation's goal of universal legal identity by 2030, including birth registration of all people around the globe. The UN's goal is to have every person with a digital ID that is linked to your bank and the government – and is fully trackable.

The Gates funding is also earmarked to support interoperable payment systems and data-sharing systems. In short, digital, trackable cash. This aligns with the Federal Reserve's discussion of creating a central bank digital currency that would include your identity with every purchase, including medical care.
