If You Have Symptoms, Don't Wait for Test Results

People are still getting COVID-19, even the vaccinated. If you get sick, don't wait. The virus explodes like wildfire on day six, says Dr. Zelenko. To avoid long-hauler Covid-19 disease, Dr. Haider wants medications started by at least day six of your illness. Earlier is better.

So don't let anyone convince you to sit at home to see what happens. The virus is replicating, and time is ticking. Early treatment with anti-viral medications stops the body from responding to the virus with a deadly cytokine storm. It stops the body from creating miniature blood clots everywhere.

So, if you get Covid symptoms, do not delay. Begin treatment before the test results come back. If necessary, get medication at SpeakwithanMD.com. Do Not Wait.
