Why Are Americans Complying With Tyranny?

On September 27, Northwell Health fired two dozen employees to comply with the executive order of New York’s former governor. In total “a few hundred employees” were fired for refusing the injection. Unless they were at least 62 years old, they lost all 2021 employer contributions to their pension plan. Paid-time-off was also denied. Then Northwell announced that its staff was 100 percent vaccinated.

But look north. The difference is stunning. In Quebec, the vaccine mandate is being abandoned because the health care system can’t afford to lose its thousands of non-vaccinated employees. Also interesting is the difference between America and other cities worldwide where thousands of people are marching daily in protests, refusing to comply. Why are Americans complying so easily with tyranny?
