CDC Deceit on Natural Immunity Exposed

If those already infected refuse the Covid shot, they can be expelled from school, fired from jobs, kicked out of the military, and prohibited from entering buildings. The CDC claims a previously infected person, a person with natural immunity, may endanger others unless they've got the shot.

This claim is based on zero evidence. When a law firm asked the CDC to show them the proof that someone previously infected with COVID-19 had become reinfected and transmitted the virus to someone else, the CDC admitted in a letter that they have no such evidence. They're not even looking for that evidence. They simply assume that those with natural immunity endanger society, and they are willing to strip these Americans of their rights based on zero evidence to support their claim. The CDC's political agenda is vaccinations-for-all whether you need them or not.
