Mayo Wants Medical Records of “EVERYBODY”

There’s a video of the Mayo Clinic speaking at the World Health Summit 2022 about something they began in 2019. Here is what the speaker said:

“We have...a new venture. It’s called Mayo Clinic Platform...what we’re hoping to do is gather medical records, and it’s a very lofty goal, but the medical records of everybody in the world so we can start to...predict before diseases and conditions even happen. ... We realize that that is the future. That...hopefully being able to have all of these records it’s being able to help our physicians, our scientists and our researchers be able to cure diseases and conditions before they even occur.”

Do you want the Mayo Clinic to have all your medical records?

Mayo Clinic Platform_Gather:

From medical devices manufacturers to clinical record vendors to telemetry companies, source data providers can multi-laterally leverage Mayo Clinic Platform_Gather.

Gather removes roadblocks that slow and even stop innovation of commercial clinical solutions that are urgently needed to care for patients.

- Access data aggregated from disparate sources to create one common repository of data
- Ensure standardization and cohesiveness across data sets with normalized data
- Adhere to patient security and privacy with de-identified data
