Truth About Boosters Comes Out

Federal health officials are again pushing Covid boosters. Dr. Fauci, in what was expected to be his last White House briefing before he retires, pushed the booster. The CDC claimed the people getting the most benefit from a booster are those who've only had the original two shots. A CDC researcher said it would help protect you from getting others sick.

Clearly the CDC is behind the times. The shot does not stop transmission, so why is that being said? Furthermore, Dr. Dan Barouch, who help develop the J&J shot, said in The New York Times: "It's not likely that any of the vaccines or boosters, no matter how many you get, will provide substantial and sustained protection against acquisition of infection." Ignore the CDC. They're lying.
