Four Reasons to Reconsider the Covid Booster

Is the Covid shot a gift to yourself or a dangerous game of Russian roulette? I offer you just four reasons to reconsider another shot. This is not medical advice, just news that should give you pause.

First, a new study found that seven days after the injection, recreational endurance athletes had a decrease in maximum oxygen uptake. Second, the Norwegian Health Institute says they're not recommending that adults 18 to 64 take the shot. Third, a new Canadian study found the third dose of Pfizer, the booster dose, to have a higher rate of myocarditis in teenage boys than the second dose. Fourth, a coroner is concerned about the death of a 14-year-old three weeks after the Pfizer jab. So what are you going to do?
