You'll Have to Fight for Face Freedom

On April 18, federal Judge Kathryn Kimball Mizelle struck down Biden's mask mandate. Passengers cheered mid-flight and tore off their masks.

The next day, the Department of Justice said it would appeal the judge's decision — if the CDC deemed it necessary. The DOJ called mask mandates “a valid exercise of the authority given to the CDC to protect the public health” that the Department “will continue to work to preserve.”

But as the judge ruled, the federal government does not have the authority to put masks over our mouths. Nevertheless, they are going to fight to get it forever. On April 20, the CDC asked the DOJ to appeal the decision. Are you ready to fight for face freedom?
