CCHF Responds to Federal Request on Covid “Misinformation”

The Office of the Surgeon General is investigating Covid misinformation. A Request for Information (RFI) asked the public to respond to seven questions by May 2nd. We responded but our answers do not fit the preferred narrative. Instead of misinformation, which is a natural part of free speech that happens often and inadvertently, we reported on two years of disinformation – purposeful deception – coming out of the federal government.

The Surgeon General wanted names of public figures and technology platforms that we suspect are guilty of misinformation, so we listed several that are guilty of disinformation on topics such as early treatment, vaccine safety, facts about the virus, and facts about masks. For example, we quoted President Biden who said that if people got the vaccine, they would not get Covid.
