VA Patients Harmed by Electronic Health Records

The Veterans Health Administration says its new electronic health records, or EHRs, have harmed patients. The government's EHR has sent thousands of orders for medical care to an undetectable location instead of the lab or radiology or specialty care. Doctors were never informed. For example, a diabetic patient did not receive a consultation that had been ordered until 14 months later. The VA has paused all future rollouts of the EHR until the problems are resolved.

If you'd like to get the third printing of my book, "Big Brother in the Exam Room: The Dangerous Truth about Electronic Health Records," come get it in person. If you're in the Twin Cities, September 15th is our annual CCHF dinner with GENERAL MICHAEL T. FLYNN.
