Alarming Uptick in All-Cause Deaths in the Injected

Studies have found the toxic spike protein circulating for weeks and months after the shot and after Covid infection. Pathologist Ryan Cole says autopsies should have been done on people who died days, weeks or months after getting the shot to check for spike protein. But the federal government discourages autopsies. That, says Dr. Cole, is bad science. “You cannot find what you are not looking for.”

He has noticed interesting clotting, death, autopsy, cancer, and viral patterns. He says not only is the spike toxic, but the lipid nanoparticle in the shot has “so many chemicals” never trialed in humans before. He also noted the alarming “uptick in all-cause deaths” in those who received the shot versus those who did not.
