Samaritan Ministries Explains Health Sharing

There's a new book called, "Sharing the Burden: The Samaritan Ministries Story." That story began 25 years ago in a renovated chicken coop, where the founder of Samaritan Ministries, Ted Pittenger, dared to dream a dream of providing Biblical, affordable, medical care for the Christian community through a non-insurance model. Members share each other's medical expenses, are not forced into Medicare when they turn 65, and can see any doctor anywhere.

Today, the more than 100,000 Samaritan members pay affordable monthly shares that start as low as $100. Samaritan members share directly with each other, sending notes with their checks. It's not insurance; it's person to person connections. Consider switching to health sharing! It's a very affordable option.
