Super Bowl vs. Super Tuesday

We're halfway between the Super Bowl and Super Tuesday. The Super Bowl was a fun event but when it was over we went on with the rest of our lives. It's inconsequential for our future.

But Super Tuesday on March 3 is very consequential. Fourteen states will cast their vote for the presidential candidate of their choice. If you are a Republican and even if President Trump is the only candidate on the Republican ballot in your state, go and vote. Be counted. If you are a Democrat and don't like your choices or can't decide, get informed, go to the primary and vote. Be counted. Many people around the world don't have a right to vote, so don't take it for granted—and know that every vote counts toward your future. Be counted on Tuesday, March 3.
