M4A – Your Money Won't Help You

It's day nine of Medicare for All, which will have no deductibles, no coinsurance, no copayments, and no similar charges for any benefits provided by the program. That's because taxpayers will fund the program.

And, no provider can charge you for any services available through Medicare for All. But what's that mean? Since the program's benefits are comprehensive, and since providers can't charge you for them, what happens when Medicare for All denies you access to the treatment, medications, hospitalization and other services you need? That's right. You won't be able to pay to get it, because it will be illegal to take your money. Tell your neighbors the truth about Medicare for All.
