Can Businesses Bar the VACCINATED from Entry?

Two Canadian businesses, a gold and silver coin exchange and a gym, require people who enter to be unvaccinated and mask free.

In Miami, a private school has barred vaccinated teachers from contact with students. Centner Academy issued the prohibition based on reports that “non-vaccinated people” are “being negatively impacted by interacting with people who have been vaccinated.” The school further says teachers who get the vaccine over the summer will not be allowed to return until the clinical trials are completed. That could be sometime in 2023.

So here's the question: If private institutions and businesses can discriminate against people for choosing to go unvaccinated, can private businesses also bar them from entry for being vaccinated? Stay tuned.
