No Rhyme or Reason to Mask Mandates

The lack of a single standard for masking mandates shows the only standard is fear mongering. Experts say cloth masks don't protect, so officials know it doesn't really matter. It's not about safety. It's about control.

For example, Minnesota exempts the state legislature from masking. Apparently, politicians can't get coronavirus. New Mexico doesn't require masks for individuals—unless they are exercising. But Minnesota exempts people from masks when they are exercising. Some states require customers to wear masks, while others do not. Age requirements differ too. Illinois requires face masks for anyone over 2 years of age, while Colorado requires them for anyone over the age of 10. So, you see there's no rhyme or reason to the mandates, except to impose government control over the population.
