The Threat of a “Right to Health Care”

Democrats claim health care is a right; a human right. This is not true, but importantly, they ignore and never talk about some actual rights that would get in the way of this so-called “right to health care.” For example:

Doctors have the right to stop practicing. Students have the right to not become doctors. Nurses have the right to find other careers. Researchers have the right to stop developing new drugs because socialized systems won't pay for them.

There's no such thing as a right to health care because government can't force anyone to be doctors or nurses. Socialized medicine would destroy our medical care system. Find doctors who've exercised their right to not participate in government programs at JointheWedge.com
