Facilities that Refuse Doctor's Orders

A frustrated woman called our office. Her doctor found a lump in her breast and ordered an MRI because she's not a good candidate for mammography due to breast density. She agreed. And because she pays with cash, she didn't want to waste the money.

But radiology facility after facility after facility refused to do the MRI without first doing a mammogram. They told her it's their "standard of care." But the American radiology society told her it's only a guideline, not a mandate.

Thus, at a stressful time, her care is being delayed by people who don't know her and who refuse to follow her doctor's orders. If you have a similar story, please contact us at cchfreedom.org. That's cchfreedom.org
