Face Freedom Friday – Shed the Government Mask

The Declaration of Independence was an act of civil disobedience. It was high treason, punishable by execution. But for the 56 Founders and for us, this document laid out our natural rights and the concept called “the consent of the governed,” an “idea for which the Declaration is famous.”

But now, under the guise of “public health,” the governed have lost the right to breathe, talk and live freely. The government mask is a prerequisite for engaging in public life; for buying, selling and traveling. The government must not violate our constitutional rights under the false premise of protecting others from a tiny, unstoppable, airborne virus. It’s time to shed the mask! Post your smiling face on social media today with the hashtag #FaceFreedom.
