House Pushing Federal Database of Medical Records

What if you couldn’t get medical treatment without a new federal ID number? What if this number linked all your confidential medical records together into a single computerized federal medical record?

What if all your data was accessible online under this one number without your consent to government and countless others such as health plans, researchers, and a boatload of business associates?

The U.S. House has already voted to impose a national patient ID number to create this federal system of medical records. It’s called a unique patient identifier.

HIPAA won’t protect you. It enables this federal system of patient data. Call your Congressman and U.S. Senator today and tell them to not fund the development of a National Patient ID.
