Government Plays Doctor Doctor

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

A new report recommends men not be screened for prostate cancer. The 10-member U.S. Preventive Services Task Force says the PSA test has no net benefit…or the harms outweigh the benefits.

Not everyone agrees, but this could mean insurers and Medicare will refuse to pay for the test. This is the same group that told women in their 40s that they don’t need mammograms.

Well, maybe they do and maybe they don’t. Maybe there is more harm from the PSA test and the resulting treatment especially if the cancer is really slow growing. But that’s not the point. The point is 10 political appointees should not be able to tell the entire country what preventive procedures should and should not be done. You and your doctor should decide, and preferably under cash payments.
