British Cancer Patient in Trouble

The latest news out of England shows why it’s a bad idea to depend on government for your health care. Starting in April, 25 cancer drugs will no longer be funded. These drugs extended lives up to two and a half years. The Chairman of the Cancer Drugs Fund said they made difficult decisions in order to prioritize drugs with the best value.

This means the loss of treatments for bowel cancer, leukemia, breast cancer and cancers of the prostate, ovaries, lungs, pancreas and kidneys. Who defines “value”? This is a good question for Americans as the Medicare administration implements a new Cancer Care payment model that will pay doctors for the value of their services not for their services.
