Tinkering With Chairs on the Titanic

As the seventh anniversary of Obamacare nears, there’s trouble afoot. Congress’ current discussions about “repeal and replace” mostly tinker with the chairs on the Titanic. There appears to be little interest in discarding the elements that have methodically eliminated health freedom.

America’s road to socialized medicine is paved with employer-sponsored coverage, the single-payer Medicare program, managed care health plans, which are corporate socialism, and government reporting systems that use data and payment to control doctors.
