The Follies of Bernie's Medicare for All Plan

Bernie Sanders has proposed a Medicare for All plan. But Medicare has a $43 trillion unfunded liability -- more than twice our national debt. Since 2008, Medicare’s expenses have been more than its revenues. If we expect Medicare to take care of baby boomers, we should expect lots of rationing.

Bernie plans to get rid of health insurance premiums and impose new taxes. He blames health plans for high prices, but blame starts with Congress, which gave us Medicare, which led to the HMO Act, which gave us health plan monopolies -- which Obamacare is using to build a nationwide rationing system run by managed care corporations. Medicare for All would is just another name for government-managed and -rationed care.
