VA Not Improving Despite Scandal

Nearly two years ago we learned veterans were dying waiting for medical care. The head of the VA told Congress that employees that engaged in the manipulation of waiting lists and coverups would be held accountable. But so far only three low-level employees have been fired despite 110 VA medical facilities keeping secret lists to hide long wait times.

Furthermore, two senior managers retaliated against employees who reported dangers to patient care and financial mismanagement. And the long waits for care continue. Now imagine all of us, you and me, not just our veterans, in government health care as Obama, Hillary and Bernie want. A bureaucrat will not be your friend when you desperately need medical attention.
