Escape the National Patient ID

Proponents of a national medical records system are cheering. On May 5th, as part of the 2017 appropriations bill, President Trump signed into law a National Patient ID. The bill doesn't call it that, and you won’t figure it out unless you read the report that is attached to the bill.

Republicans just ended the prohibition that Congressman Ron Paul put into place 19 years ago. It’s now called a “national patient-matching strategy” and your tax dollars can be used to build it. This is one more reason to join The Wedge of Health Freedom. No tracking. No national ID numbers, no linking all your medical records together. Ask your doctor to Join the Wedge. Jointhewedge.com
