Pull Out the Addictive Medicaid Hook

Obama’s team cast the hook and many Republican governors took the bait. As the Wall Street Journal columnist reports, “Once the governors took expanded Medicaid payments, they were hooked.”

To appease governors, Republicans in Congress are planning how to keep this huge part of Obamacare intact. The federal government pays 90% of the cost of every Medicaid expansion recipient. There’s no cap.

This increase in Medicaid funding has already led to less funding for transportation and education. Medicaid will eat Americans out of house and home, leading to economic decline and public dependency. It’s time for Americans to pull this addictive hook out of the mouths of Republican leaders.
