Democrats Establish Medicare-for-All Caucus

On July 19th, Democrats in Congress announced the formation of a Medicare-for-All Caucus. It is co-chaired by three members: U.S. Reps. Pramila Jayapal, Keith Ellison and Debbie Dingell. Notably, Rep. Dingell is the wife of former Congressman John Dingell Jr. who voted for Medicare in 1965 and was passionate about establishing a national health care system.

Democrats are serious about imposing a single-payer system. But how will they expand Medicare to cover all Americans? Medicare is running out of funds, is already rationing care to the elderly, and will be bankrupt in 8 years. So how will that work? Democrats are in dreamland.
