Dangerous Public-Private Partnership

The Affordable Care Act gave health plans millions of new Medicaid patients, backed by federal subsidies paid by taxpayers. Their stock is soaring. For example, the stock of WellCare, a Medicaid health plan, is up 4000 percent.

Even worse, Wall Street investors are no longer worried about single-payer. One analyst says investors believe that Medicare-for-all will become Medicare Advantage for All. Medicare Advantage is the health plan version of Medicare. Thus, they believe socialized medicine in America will be run by health plans. This dangerous public-private partnership is exactly what Ted Kennedy, Hillary and Obama planned for. Who wants out?
