HillaryCare’s HMOs Are Alive And Well

The growth and power of the health plans today is not an accident. Senator Ted Kennedy and President Richard Nixon worked to pass a 1973 law that subsidized HMOs and forced employers to offer them. In 1993 Hillary Clinton planned to used these HMOs, now called health plans, to nationalize health care.

HillaryCare would have required everyone to be enrolled in an HMO within a regional alliance. Obama and the Democrat Congress did what Hillary couldn’t. They used the Affordable Care Act to mandate health plans for all and prohibit catastrophic indemnity insurance. We may not have Hillary’s regional alliances, but HillaryCare’s HMOs are alive and well.
