Congress’ Dangerous Price Control Plan

Congress is a danger to patients, doctors, and freedom. Its members are often focused on big-buck donors that promise to get them re-elected if they pass this or that bill into law. But these donors are using Congress to build a system that works to their benefit, not the patient’s benefit.

For example, US Senators are pushing to end so-called surprise medical billing. They want to unconstitutionally prohibit doctors from setting their own prices, which will drive more doctors out of practice. Yet Congress has not tried to impose similar price controls on premiums charged by health plans, which are some of their biggest campaign contributors. And that’s why Obamacare, a boon to health plans, has never been repealed.
