Government 1 ~ Canary 0

The canary in the coal mine just died. Washington D.C.’s Obamacare Exchange board voted to force all citizens and small businesses to buy health insurance from the government. In other words, there are no choices. There is no market. Only Obamacare. If you live in D.C. and you want health insurance you’ll have to buy it through the government bureaucracy called the Exchange.

Once upon a time, citizens were promised that if they like their insurance they could keep it. But Robert Laszewski, president of Health Policy and Strategy Associates, recently said, “The ACA cannot be implemented without an insurance exchange in each state.” End quote. Expect everyone to be forced to buy from the government if Obamacare is not repealed.
