Try Health Sharing

It’s less than two weeks before open enrollment begins. The fact that we have a national open enrollment period shows how the Affordable Care Act is a national health care law. Before the ACA, there was no national enrollment period. Insurers enrolled people all year long.

But because the ACA mandates that insurers cover people with uninsurable conditions, otherwise known as pre-existing conditions, and because this makes coverage unaffordable, a national enrollment period was set to prevent people from waiting until they get sick to enroll.

But you can choose health sharing instead of unaffordable coverage! Go to cchfreedom.org and search for health sharing. That’s cchfreedom.org
