What You Need to Know About EHRs

If you want to know how the electronic health record negatively affects your medical care, and your doctor’s ability to think about you the patient, I suggest you take the time to read Dr. Howard Green’s blog post on LinkedIn.

I don’t think patients understand the danger they’re in, not only from safety issues related to the electronic health record, but from physician burnout as a result of the electronic health record and the fact that many doctors are thinking about getting out of medicine just as 10,000 Americans are entering Medicare every day.

His post isn’t written for patients, but every patient should read it. Find the link at CCHFFREEDOM.org in the Health Freedom Minute section.
