First C in 4C Solution

Our organization’s “4C” vision for health care provides a real solution for today’s crisis. Dr. Lee Hieb from AAPS came up with the first three C’s, and we added a fourth. The first “C” is cash for care. A cash-based health care system for routine and minor care would increase access and decrease administration.

Prices would become competitive and posted. Doctors could return to less expensive solo practices. And cost of care could come down to the pocketbook level. The PATMOS clinic in Tennessee takes only cash and sees all kinds of patients, including those on Medicaid. The price is low enough and the personalized care can’t be beat. Tomorrow, I’ll discuss the second “C”.
