It’s interesting how the liberals get nasty when things don’t go their way. Now that many squishy Republicans are remembering their spines (many with Tea Party prodding) and returning to their constitutional principles, the liberal claws have come out.

During the initial days of the slowdown, Kentucky Governor Steve Beshear, a Democrat, said anti-Obamacare activists were “shameful” for trying to derail Obamacare rather than implement it. He raged, “Get over it and get out of the way so I can help my people.” One wonders what the anti-Revolutionary crowds were saying to our Founding Fathers. Aren’t you glad they remained committed to the cause of independence and the principles of freedom?
