November 12, 2013

Marriage Penalty-Get Obamacare or Stay Married?

In their push for Obamacare, liberals often talked about people choosing between food and medicine. Some people probably do make these choices, although they may have had other options like charity, discounts or eliminating non-essential personal spending. Regardless, I wonder if Obamacare supporters realized that the law would tempt people to divorce rather than stay married?

A Brooklyn, New York couple say they may be forced to get a divorce to get health insurance they can afford. If they get divorced, they have access to Obamacare premium subsidies. If they stay married, they don’t. This is part of the Obamacare marriage penalty. So will Obamacare now become a rationale for family breakups?