Who Defines an Obamacare Enrollee?

Last week, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services revealed that only 160,000 people nationwide enrolled in Obamacare in October, and only one-quarter of those enrolled through the federal healthcare.gov website that serves 36 states. That’s about 25,000 people, or less than 800 people per state.

Plus many or most of these enrollees may not truly be enrolled. HHS does not know how many of them have actually paid for coverage and they won’t know until December. They had expected 500,000 people to enroll in October. The rollout of Obamacare may be in trouble, but Democrats still have the law in place and the president in power. Refuse to enroll.
