Health Plans are NOT Insurance

I have a topic you might want to talk about over Thanksgiving turkey. It’s called the truth about health plans. Your health plan—whether it’s Aetna, Medica, BlueCross, Kaiser or any other health plan is not health insurance. That’s right. It’s prepaid health care. It’s the corporate version of socialized medicine.

Real insurance is for major medical expenses—to protect you against financial disaster. Therefore, it’s affordable, it never interferes, it has no networks, you choose your doctors, and it pays you. Then you pay your own medical bills. Health plans are not insurance. Like socialized systems, they centralize dollars, data, and decisions. Take some time tomorrow to chew on that!
