Partnership Exchange is Trojan Horse

Bureaucrats can be very sneaky. Obamacare allows state-run exchanges funded by the state or a federal exchange run by and funded by the Federal government. But federal officials have no money to build the federal exchange, so to get state taxpayers to fund it, they just made up something out of thin air and called it a “state-federal partnership” exchange.

The partnership is a Trojan horse. The state will act as the “storefront” so it looks like it’s a state operation, but the feds will be in the back room running everything and forcing the state to pay fees as federal control is imposed on the everyone in the state. Governors should refuse to open their doors to this Trojan horse.
