A National Patient ID Number

Welcome to the Health Freedom Minute. This is Twila Brase, president of Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

The 1996 federal HIPAA law requires the feds to issue a unique patient ID number to every citizen. This tracking number would link all your data together, allowing extensive monitoring and profiling of you and your doctor.

But Congressman Ron Paul stopped the ID with a 1999 law that prohibits the use of federal funds to create it.

Now health IT groups are urging Congress to repeal that prohibition so federal funds can be used to build a national patient identification system. This must never happen. The number would be used to track and control. And without the ID card? No care.

Today is the last day to register for our November 10th event at the discounted rate. Don’t wait. Register today at healthfreedomminute.net.
