The Sebelius Spin Zone

“This is not a government takeover of anything,” exclaimed HHS Secretary Kathleen Sebelius last week as she blamed private insurers for dropping coverage. This was interesting spin not only because insurers are forced to drop these people but also because Obamacare made traditional insurance illegal and forced everyone into managed care health plans.

Maybe Obama has long planned to use health plans as a scapegoat for the painful realities of the takeover. But the plans, which now have fewer competitors, no gag order and no limits on premiums, are sitting pretty. They can raise their prices and lay all the blame at Obama’s feet. I’m betting on Obama losing this blame game.
