December 2, 2015

More Than $100 is Unaffordable

According to a survey, most adults aren’t willing to pay more than “$100 a month” for health insurance next year. But the average non-subsidized plan on the federal exchange was $364 per month this year — two and a half times more than most people are willing to pay. And next year, premiums on the exchange will rise an average of 20.3 percent.

Here’s another statistic: nearly 80% of the uninsured have less than $1,000 in savings. The federal government says no worries; get a subsidy. But who pays for Obamacare subsidies? Taxpayers, who also have to pay for the increased premiums of their own policies. Let’s repeal Obamacare.

“Insurance premiums: Is $100 the next Obamacare hurdle?” Dan Mangan, CNBC, October 21, 2015.

Presented daily by Twila Brase, President, Citizens’ Council for Health Freedom.

The Health Freedom Minute is now heard in 41 states: Mornings M-Th at AM1280 (The Patriot) in MN and 91.5 AM WHKC (FreedomFM) in OH, afternoons on American Family Radio, and daily on the Bott Radio Network.