Stop IRS from Tracking Your Donations - Deadline Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the last day you can tell the IRS to drop their plan to have non-profits collect and report the social security numbers of donors who give $250 or more. It’s voluntary for the moment, but that’s a strategy. Once the IRS establishes the process and their authority over it, expect it to become mandatory.

Soon charitable groups will ask for and report your social security number. The IRS will use it to create a database of donors and the groups they support. Expect more IRS targeting of conservatives. Expect donations to drop, non-profits to close their doors, and the government to assume more power. Go to our website today to submit a brief comment to oppose the rule. Deadline is tomorrow.
