Cheery News All Around

Here’s some cheery news. The New York Times has dug up quotes from physician and Congressman Tom Price, Donald Trump’s choice for Secretary of HHS. They want to instill fear, but I felt nothing but cheer. Dr. Price called the federal children’s health insurance program “government-run socialized medicine.”

He opposed government deciding which treatments are more effective calling it the foundation of rationing and a step toward “nationalized health care.” He says regulators in D.C. get in the way of patient care. It looks like Dr. Price will also work to drain the swamp. That’s good news!

Now, to add to the cheer, I wish you a blessed Christmas as you celebrate the birth of the Savior of the World, the Prince of Peace, King of Kings, Emmanuel.
